The Breath of Life

"For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that people are without excuse. For although they knew God, they neither glorified him as God nor gave thanks to him, but their thinking became futile and their foolish hearts were darkened. Although they claimed to be wise, they became fools and exchanged the glory of the immortal God for images made to look like a mortal human being and birds and animals and reptiles. Therefore God gave them over in the sinful desires of their hearts to sexual impurity for the degrading of their bodies with one another. They exchanged the truth about God for a lie, and worshiped and served created things rather than the Creator—who is forever praised. Amen."

Help For Kids With Sensory Processing Disorder

(NAPSA)—If you've ever watched a child throw a tantrum in the grocery store, or witnessed a child slam into things, seemingly oblivious to pain, you may have seen the symptoms of sensory processing disorder (SPD). This condition affects 5 to 10 percent of children. Many parents whose children exhibit these and similar behavioral problems may be relieved to know that they are not alone. There may be a medical reason—and effective treatment is available.

Children with SPD benefit from occupational therapy with a sensory approach.

ONSITE PREVIEW: TUESDAY • APRIL 30 • 4-6 PM

Understanding SPD

Whether you're eating, walking or reading, your ability to do so requires the integration of sensations. SPD occurs when sensory signals don't get organized into appropriate responses. This makes everyday tasks difficult, even though most individuals with SPD are just as intelligent as their peers and many are intellectually gifted.

Signs of SPD

A person with SPD may exhibit such symptoms as:

- Overly sensitive to touch, noises, smells or movement
- Floppy or stiff body; clumsy, poor motor skills
- Difficulty dressing, eating, sleeping or toilet training
- Frequent or lengthy temper tantrums
- Easily distracted, fidgety, withdrawn or aggressive
- Craves movement
- Easily overwhelmed.

Not everyone with these symptoms has SPD and not everyone with SPD has all these symptoms, but if your child has many of them, it may be time to see a doctor.

The Good News

Fortunately, once children have been accurately diagnosed, explains Lucy Jane Miller, Ph.D., OTR, occupational therapy can help them participate in normal activities—playing with friends, enjoying school, eating, dressing and sleeping.

The Bad News

SPD is frequently misdiagnosed or confused with ADHD and other conditions.

The Answers

The Sensory Processing Disorder Foundation provides information at www.SPNow.org and (303) 794-1182.

2 TIMOTHY 3: 1 - 7

But mark this: There will be terrible times in the last days. People will be lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boastful, proud, abusive, disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, unholy, without love, unforgiving, slanderous, without self-control, brutal, not lovers of the good, treacherous, rash, conceited, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God - having a form of godliness but denying its power. Have nothing to do with such people. They are the kind who worm their way into homes and gain control over gullible women, who are loaded down with sins and are swayed by all kinds of evil desires, always learning but never able to come to a knowledge of the truth.

PSALM 116: 1 - 7

I love the Lord, for he heard my voice; he heard my cry for mercy. Because he turned his ear to me, I will call on him as long as I live. The cords of death entangled me, the anguish of the grave came over me; I was overcome by distress and sorrow. Then I called on the name of the Lord: "Lord, save me!" The Lord is gracious and righteous; our God is full of compassion. The Lord protects the unwary; when I was brought low, he saved me. Return to your rest, my soul, for the Lord has been good to you.

All good work is done the way ants do things: little by little.
- Lafcadio Hearn

"The road to spiritual, mental and physical healing is often long and difficult. Sometimes it takes us through long periods of dark days and long nights when it seems as though we are left to survive on our own. We struggle and strain and worry and work but it seems as though we will be left to our own abilities. There is great advice in today's verse: "When I said, 'My foot is slipping,' Your love, O Lord, supported me." Before the Psalmist fell, he recognized that he was facing a situation, having to solve a problem or make a decision that could have been disastrous to his well-being. So, he did not wait until calling on God was too late - that his testimony and witness to the grace of God would be too late - he out maneuvered Satan. When he realized that his foot was slipping he called on God and God's love supported him! He did not need to ask for forgiveness - he asked God to intervene immediately and sustain him. As Paul brought his second letter to Timothy to a close, he must have had this verse in mind. "Timothy," he wrote, "the Lord stood at my side and gave me the strength that I needed, so that through me the message might be fully proclaimed and that all the Gentiles might hear it." Paul recognized how important it was for him to depend on God's strength and not his own. He knew that the battle was not his but the Lord's. So, rather than let his witness be destroyed, He called on God.

Comfort Food Fun

(NAPSA)—During the chilly months, many people like to have some warm comfort food with family and friends.

To make the most of that idea, you may care to consider a fun if slightly offbeat way to feed a crowd with little fuss: Throw together a delicious little "barbecue bar" and let guests go wild building their own scrumptious dishes.

Start with a tray of mouthwatering pork BBQ surrounded by assorted popular toppings for personalized barbecue platters ready to go.

Once the BBQ sandwich basics are all laid out, you'll be surprised at how just a few more trimmings can open up a world of choices for your guests.

From tangy BBQ nachos to a light, layered BBQ salad, the options are almost limitless.

For example, add some pita bread and leaf lettuce for filling BBQ pita pockets or bring some baked potatoes, green onions, sour cream and cheese into the picture for hot BBQ stuffed spuds. Here's the recipe:

BBQ Stuffed Spuds

- 2 cups Byron's Fully Cooked Pork BBQ, heated according to package directions
- 4 baking potatoes
- ½ cup sour cream
- 4 green onions, finely chopped and divided
- ½ cup shredded extra-sharp cheddar cheese

Preheat oven to 425° F.

With a package of BBQ pork, you can make many marvelous appetizers, such as these delightful BBQ Stuffed Spuds.

Poke holes in potatoes and wrap in foil. Bake potatoes in oven for 45 to 60 minutes, until tender. (Or, poke holes in potatoes and microwave on high for 10 minutes, turning potatoes after 5 minutes.) While potatoes cook, combine sour cream and 2 tablespoons green onions; set aside. Slice potatoes lengthwise and fluff them with a fork. Top potatoes with pork BBQ, sour cream mixture, cheese and remaining onions. Serves 4.

These are made with Byron's Fully Cooked Pork BBQ. Available at Sam's Club, it easily delivers authentic smokehouse barbecue from the freezer to the table. Each 4-pound package of hand-pulled, hickory-smoked pork BBQ comes fully cooked in an aluminum tray and needs only to be reheated, so it's ready at a moment's notice.

News For Older Americans

Sharing Caring And Safety

(NAPSA)—When it comes to helping elderly relatives adjust to changes in their lives, even the most devoted adult child may not see all the signals or know what to do—especially if he or she is far away—but help can be available.

What To Do

To the extent possible, talk with your elderly parents gently and honestly about their wishes, their abilities and their options. These conversations are helpful and put the adult child in a better position to make decisions later when the parent may not be able to do so.

What Help Is Available

Fortunately, recent technological advances can make aging easier: Velcro fasteners, lightweight wheelchairs, devices to control appliances and dial telephone numbers. There are walk-in bathtubs for people who have difficulty climbing into an ordinary tub.

Also helpful can be an entirely private, ad-free website in which to manage private information associated with your elderly parent, from Social Security numbers to lists of online accounts and passwords or medications. It's a safe place to store and manage those binders full of information most people keep.

Social networks can be a place to confer, organize and connect about private family issues—the key, though, is privacy. On this one, the information is shareable with anyone you designate as a trusted participant, even relatives across the globe. That means everyone concerned about someone's care can have the latest information.

trace medications, a to-do list, key contacts, a notepad for tracking key accounts and a place to upload important files and documents. This can be done securely and privately and without the worry of this information being shared beyond your control. Called CareZone, it can mean you don't have to worry about privacy, where the information is kept and stored, or how it's used.

The information can be available on any device you use to access the Internet—smartphones, tablets, Macs or PCs. The service is free through 2012 and will cost $5 per month in 2013.

1 CORINTHIANS 1: 18 - 21
 For the message of the cross is foolishness to those who are perishing, but to us who are being saved it is the power of God. For it is written: "I will destroy the wisdom of the wise; the intelligence of the intelligent I will frustrate."
 Where is the wise person? Where is the teacher of the law? Where is the philosopher of this age? Has not God made foolish the wisdom of the world? For since in the wisdom of God the world through its wisdom did not know him, God was pleased through the foolishness of what was preached to save those who believe.

Why Reduce Waste?

by Lisa Luck

Reducing waste can seem impossible – especially with the summer right around the corner. Family picnics, camping and traveling tends to generate additional waste in the form of disposable tablecloths, napkins, plastic plates and cups. Quick to-go suppers can fill up a trash can with packaging that cannot be recycled. Many tons of packaging is discarded – mostly in a landfill. But the problem is bigger than just filling up a landfill.

All activity we engage in produces waste. Emissions in carbon dioxide and methane from the waste we generate slowly warm the earth. Increases in population and activity contribute to additional waste and emissions. Each person emits a minimum of 8.5 tons of carbon dioxide each year into the atmosphere – and depending on activity can emit much, much more. The most emissions come from transportation such as driving or flying. The second most emissions come from agriculture. Rainforests are being cleared to plant soybeans for cattle to meet the demand for beef. The third largest emitter of warming gasses are landfills – primarily because of food waste.

What can we do to decrease the amount of waste we generate and still enjoy family, friends, traditions and traveling? Can we still continue to enjoy our lives yet reduce the amount of waste we generate? Can a birthday party be celebrated without balloons, wrapping paper, plastic tablecloths and still be a happy birthday? Most of us have literally "bought in" to products of convenience we feel are time-savers. The money we are willing to spend to do less tedious work increases daily. So does the garbage. We must find ways that we can reduce the amount of waste we generate.

Unless one knows something about garbage it is hard to find a reason to reduce the amount of garbage one generates. Realizing that human activity is warming the atmosphere seems like the first step in realizing why it is important to reduce our waste stream. Becoming cognizant that we directly impact on the earth through our behaviors are a great motivator for us to make changes in how and what we do on a day-to-day basis.

For the sake of the environment, we need to rethink our purchases and reduce the amount of products we purchase. We can reduce waste and lessen emissions into the atmosphere if we all throw away less. We can throw away less by buying less. Being attentive to how much waste each purchase generates can help us reduce waste. We need to engage in activities that do not add to creating waste and find joy in doing these things even if they are less convenient.

At a reader's suggestion, we are compiling a list of waste reduction techniques used by readers that reduce the amount of waste generated in the household.

A Helping Hand for Early Bees

- After a long winter hibernation, a queen bumble bee must work quickly to find a suitable nesting spot and search for nectar and pollen to feed herself and create 'bee bread' for developing larvae. An abundance of early flowers can lay the foundation for healthy bee numbers all season long.
- One way to provide resources for pollinators while keeping the function of a lawn is to incorporate other plants such as dutch white clover, self-heal and creeping thyme. These plants have the right type of flowers for bees.
- Native trees such as maples, redbuds, and black cherry all attract bees. So next time you are looking at planting a tree, consider one that will support the bee population.

The heresy of one age becomes the orthodoxy of the next.

The way to get started is to quit talking and start doing.

2 CORINTHIANS 10: 1 - 5
By the humility and gentleness of Christ, I appeal to you - I, Paul, who am "timid" when face to face with you, but "bold" toward you when away! I beg you that when I come I may not have to be as bold as I expect to be toward some people who think that we live by the standards of this world. For though we live in the world, we do not wage war as the world does. The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world. On the contrary, they have divine power to demolish strongholds. We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ.

A Dog Trainer's Top Tips to Support Pets Through Life Stages

by Darris Cooper, CPDT-KA, FFCP

(NAPS)—Many people found comfort in their animals during the pandemic, whether they already had a pet, newly adopted, or helped care for a family member's pet. Four years later, puppies adopted during the pandemic are now entering adulthood, while dogs adopted as adults are approaching their senior years. As your dog transitions to new life stages, training is an important part of a well-rounded health and wellness routine that will keep your pup happy and healthy every step of the way:

- Enlist the pros: Pet parents may be struggling with unwanted behaviors that their pups have picked up over the past four years, often driven by separation anxiety or social anxiety. As a first step, it's important to consult your veterinarian to rule out any underlying health issues. Fostering a safe home environment and consulting with a certified dog trainer, and in some cases even a certified separation anxiety expert, are critical to addressing your pet's needs.
- Safety and preparation first: When training your dog on a leash, having a properly fitted collar and harness is important for their comfort and safety. Before taking your pup out and about, I recommend getting them microchipped and registered in the Petco Love Lost database for extra peace of mind. The right tools are essential for training and include things such as training treats, a training clicker and a treat pouch for quick access to your pet's bite-sized rewards.
- Consistency is key: Training is beneficial for your pup through all stages of life and it's never too late to learn new skills. Petco's certified dog trainers offer in-person and online classes in one-on-one and group settings. Petco's trainers are AKC Canine Good Citizen (CHC) Evaluators—they offer a prep course and can administer the AKC S.T.A.R. Puppy and CGC tests. The most effective training sessions are short and consistent and end on a positive note, as dogs will likely retain the last thing they learned. I work with my pups, Zakai and Kalea, throughout the day, as it allows me to reward desired behaviors while providing them with structure and routine. For energetic pups that may have trouble focusing on the lesson, try taking them on a walk or playing with them to work off extra energy. Training sessions are great for both physical and mental stimulation.

- Playtime with a purpose: Outside of dedicated training time, puzzle toys and chew toys can keep your pet mentally stimulated and eliminate pent-up energy, which can result in unwanted behaviors. Puppies and senior dogs can benefit from enrichment such as toys that are easier to chew, while senior dogs may prefer to avoid games such as fetch that require large amounts of energy exertion. All dogs are individuals, so pet parents should go at their pace. Scheduling a puppy playdate or going on a fun outing can be another exciting way to keep your dog happy and engaged, though it's a good idea to make sure any playmates match your pup's energy levels, play styles, and physical abilities to avoid accidental injuries.
- Nutrition as the basis of health: Ensure your dog is in the best shape possible by giving them age-appropriate food. There are special formulas for puppies and senior dogs with added nutrients that cater to their unique nutritional needs, while supplements are another great addition to your pet's diet. From omega 3 fish oil to hip, joint, skin and coat supplements for senior dogs, there's always a little something extra that can give your pup a boost.

It's also essential to schedule regular vet check-ups and grooming appointments to ensure pets look and feel their best. For additional resources including guides, checklists and more to help your pets navigate life stage transitions, visit petco.com or Petco pet care centers nationwide.

Making Life More Fun

Expert Tips For Discovering Your Family's History

(NAPSA)—If you're like many Americans, you have questions about your family history. Now, genealogy experts Kenyatta Berry, Joshua Taylor and Mary Tedesco from "Genealogy Roadshow" on PBS offer some advice for researching your family's history:

- 1) Collect as many oral histories as possible. Your living ancestors have information and stories to share. Interview them and record their stories.
- 2) Gather all the photos and documentation that you can. Items might include birth, death and marriage certificates; diplomas and other school documents; military service documents; Communion or other social, service and religious documents; and real estate documents.
- 3) Begin a secondary search. Fortunately, many ancestry-related documents, such as the U.S. Census, military documents, immigration lists and newspaper archives are now digitized and available on the Internet at little or no cost.
- 4) Consult with outside sources, such as librarians, historians, genealogy organizations and databanks to find access to resources.
- 5) Work backward. It's generally easier if you begin with the present day and go back through time.

Here are two more enjoyable ways to inspire yourself and your family in your ancestry search:

Credit: Daniel Burke

Genealogists Kenyatta Berry, Joshua Taylor and Mary Tedesco offer simple steps to help you learn about your genealogy. ("Genealogy Roadshow" premieres on PBS January 13; check local listings.)

- The next time you're planning a family reunion, make it more meaningful by incorporating a visit to a place of significance—such as a location relevant to your family history—into the festivities.
- Watch how others go about finding their roots. Part detective story, part emotional journey, "Genealogy Roadshow" (running as of January 13 on PBS and also available at PBS.org) combines history and science to uncover the fascinating stories of diverse Americans.

Each individual featured finds that his or her past links to a larger community history, revealing the rich cultural tapestry of America. Find additional resources for tracing your own ancestry at www.PBS.org.

HEBREWS 2: 1 - 4

We must pay the most careful attention, therefore, to what we have heard, so that we do not drift away. For since the message spoken through angels was binding, and every violation and disobedience received its just punishment, how shall we escape if we ignore so great a salvation? This salvation, which was first announced by the Lord, was confirmed to us by those who heard him. God also testified to it by signs, wonders and various miracles, and by gifts of the Holy Spirit distributed according to his will.

LEGACY

The Merriam Webster dictionary defines legacy as "a gift by will especially of money or other personal property" An additional definition from the same source is "something transmitted by or received from an ancestor or predecessor or from the past." Both of these definitions are important to all of us, especially to adults of all ages. Most of us want to leave lasting positive impressions on our family, friends, and communities. We desire to know that our lives have impacted other people in positive ways, and to know that how we lived our lives will truly be important after we have left this life.

Each of us will leave a legacy of some kind. We will be remembered for our accomplishments, failures, recoveries from poor choices, and so forth. No one has the opportunity to attend his or her own funeral and hear what is said about us after death, but we all hope that the "reviews" of our lives are positive. This brings me to an important issue: As Americans, what type of legacy are we leaving the younger generations who will continue to manage our great country after we have departed? Are we leaving blessings to future generations, or are we leaving them great burdens?

For many decades OUR Federal government has been spending far more money every year than it brings in with the taxes that we pay. There has been a prevailing attitude that it's OK to "kick the can down the road" when it comes to paying America's bills. As a nation, we have been borrowing hundreds of billions of dollars more than our income so that we can live a lifestyle that we cannot sustain. As a result, America is nearly bankrupt. Our national debt has doubled in less than ten years, and we have never paid anything on the principal. Eventually, we will be forced to pay this $34 TRILLION bill. We now owe well more as a country than all the wealth that all of us Americans created with our work in 2023, also known as Gross Domestic Product (GDP).

Is THIS the legacy that we want to leave for our future generations? Do we want to be remembered by the huge burden of debt that we have left for our children, grandchildren, and several generations beyond them to pay? I say, emphatically NO! All of us need to hold our elected government officials responsible for stopping this insanity! We cannot care only about our own immediate desires, and keep spending money that is not ours to spend. Get involved! Demand responsible spending from our elected government officials, and put a stop to the insane amount of borrowing. Remember, as Americans, it OUR debt, because we have to pay it back with OUR taxes.

1 JOHN 1: 5 - 10
 This is the message we have heard from him and declare to you: God is light; in him there is no darkness at all. If we claim to have fellowship with him and yet walk in the darkness, we lie and do not live out the truth. But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus, his Son, purifies us from all sin.
 If we claim to be without sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us. If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness. If we claim we have not sinned, we make him out to be a liar and his word is not in us.
