The Breath of Life

"Create in me a pure heart, O God, and renew a steadfast spirit within me. Do not cast me from your presence or take your Holy Spirit from me. Restore to me the joy of your salvation and grant me a willing spirit, to sustain me.

Then I will teach transgressors your ways, so that sinners will turn back to you. Deliver me from the guilt of bloodshed, O God, you who are God my Savior, and my tongue will sing of your righteousness. Open my lips, Lord, and my mouth will declare your praise."

Interesting Fall Fun Facts.....

⇒ Those who live closest to the equator, which is the center of the planet, never experience the season of autumn. Around the equator, the temperature remains consistently warm.

⇒ Yellow, orange and variations thereof always reside in the pigmentation of tree leaves, but they are just overpowered by the abundance of green from the chlorophyll in the leaves. Come autumn, however, when the sun weakens and days grow shorter, the amount of chlorophyll in leaves diminishes, allowing the other pigments in the leaves to show through.

⇒ Red and purple leaves are actually caused by the presence of sugars from sap that is trapped inside of the leaves.

⇒ Fall is a peak migration time for many species of birds. During autumn, birds will fly to other areas as they seek more hospitable climates. The Arctic tern journeys about 11,000 miles each way for its annual migration. That is like going all the way across the United States about three and a half times.

⇒ Contrary to popular belief, squirrels who have spent the entire autumn collecting acorns and other foods do not hibernate for the winter. Rather, they spend the majority of their time in nests they built to shelter them from harsh weather. When squirrels do come out in winter, they are usually tunneling under the snow to find the food they buried during the fall.

Youth Villages is a private, nonprofit organization dedicated to helping children with emotional and behavioral problems and their families live successfully.

We provide direct help to thousands of children and families each year; partner with innovative states and high-performing nonprofit organizations that use our effective program models; and advocate for positive change to child welfare systems around the country.

Our approach involves intensive work with the child and family; a focus on measuring outcomes; keeping children in the community whenever safely possible; and providing accountability to families and funders. The Youth Villages approach produces lasting, positive change for children.

While we help children from birth to age 22, the majority of the children who receive services from Youth Villages are between 12 and 17.

Children come to us because of emotional and behavioral disorders, physical or sexual abuse, substance abuse, or suicidal ideation or attempt. Our LifeSet program is a bridge from foster care to successful adulthood for young people who have experienced foster care.

More than 85% of Youth Villages children have multiple problems, which may include developmental or learning disabilities, as well as family issues and instability.

Romans 8:5-9

Those who live according to the flesh have their minds set on what the flesh desires; but those who live in accordance with the Spirit have their minds set on what the Spirit desires. The mind governed by the flesh is death, but the mind governed by the Spirit is life and peace. The mind governed by the flesh is hostile to God; it does not submit to God's law, nor can it do so. Those who are in the realm of the flesh cannot please God. You, however, are not in the realm of the flesh but are in the realm of the Spirit, if indeed the Spirit of God lives in you.

Fall Harvest Facts.....

As the vibrant fall hues set in, the harvest season becomes a significant time in agriculture. For parents and educators, this season provides an excellent opportunity to engage children with the wonders of farming and agriculture. Teaching kids about fall harvest not only deepens their understanding of the food system but also helps them appreciate the role of farmers, sustainability, and the natural world.

1. Fall is Prime Harvest Season for Many Crops
Fall is the time when many crops, such as pumpkins, apples, and corn, are harvested. These crops rely on shorter days and cooler temperatures to ripen fully. It's also a time when farms are busiest, as they gather their final yields before the winter months.

2. Pumpkins: The Symbol of Fall

The U.S. produces over 1.5 billion pounds of pumpkins annually, with most of them harvested in September and October. Illinois leads the country in pumpkin production, followed by Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania. Pumpkins are not only a Halloween staple but also an essential crop for pies and other dishes.

3. Apples Reach Their Peak in the Fall

Apples are a fall harvest highlight, with over 7,500 varieties grown worldwide. The U.S. is the second-largest apple producer, with Washington State leading the country. Apples are picked by hand and require careful handling to avoid bruising and preserve their quality.

Tips For Bakers

(NAPSA)—For many, baking is as much a part of the holidays as gift shopping and decorating.

But stocking the pantry, mixing, measuring, and using the oven can sometimes be a challenge when time is in short supply.

A new book might help. It offers plenty of ideas and inspiration for holiday bakers—as well as 150 tasty recipes that will take anyone through Christmas, Hanukkah, Kwanzaa, New Year's and beyond. Called "Pillsbury Holiday Baking" (Wiley), it offers these tips and more:

- Cool all baked goods completely before wrapping and freezing.

- When mailing more than one kind of cookie or bar, wrap each kind separately so your sugar cookies don't taste like ginger cookies or your brownies don't taste like pumpkin bars.

- For Kwanzaa cutouts: Let kids look through magazines for pictures of African fabric to make invitations and party decorations using those designs.

- If you can't find Hanukkah cookie cutters, make templates out of cardboard.

- Recycle creatively: Dress up the outside of plastic, metal or glass jars and canisters with colorful felt, felt cutouts or wrapping paper.

- Ring in the New Year by writing the year, a seasonal word, or message on the rim of dessert plates with decorating gels.

For more information, visit www.pillsbury.com.

Ephesians 4:25-29

Therefore each of you must put off falsehood and speak truthfully to your neighbor, for we are all members of one body. "In your anger do not sin": Do not let the sun go down while you are still angry, and do not give the devil a foothold. Anyone who has been stealing must steal no longer, but must work, doing something useful with their own hands, that they may have something to share with those in need. Do not let any unwholesome talk come out of your mouths, but only what is helpful for building others up according to their needs, that it may benefit those who listen.

And this is the testimony: God has given us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. Whoever has the Son has life; whoever does not have the Son of God does not have life.

I write these things to you who believe in the name of the Son of God so that you may know that you have eternal life. This is the confidence we have in approaching God: that if we ask anything according to his will, he hears us. And if we know that he hears us - whatever we ask - we know that we have what we asked of him.

Recipe Korner

October is National Popcorn Month

(NAPSA)—'Tis the season of decking halls and trimming trees, and now there's a delicious way to do both—in the kitchen.

There's no chance of breaking heirloom ornaments when you're decorating miniature Festive Popcorn Trees made from The Popcorn Board's recipe. Roll up your sleeves, gather the kids and pull out your prettiest decorating sugars and sprinkles. Then turn marshmallows and popcorn into a scenic winter wonderland to display—or eat.

Long ago, Christmas trees were trimmed with treats such as apples, nuts or dates. With Festive Popcorn Trees, your entire tree is edible. There's no right or wrong way to decorate a tree, but if you're not happy with the results, eat it and start again. It's the ultimate eco-friendly way to trim a tree.

And if you're looking to trim fat and calories during this hectic season, pop up a bowl of plain popcorn to nibble on when hunger strikes. At 30 calories a cup, wholesome, whole grain popcorn is naturally low in fat and calories and the fiber can help fill you between meals. Leave the padding to jolly old St. Nick.

Festive Popcorn Trees

Yield: 10 trees

- 10 cups air-popped popcorn*
- 1 10-ounce bag miniature marshmallows
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- decorating sugar (green, blue)
- 1 tube of white frosting (with decorating tip)
- assorted small colorful candies, such as sprinkles and miniature silver dragées

Place popcorn in large bowl. Place marshmallows and butter in medium saucepan over medium-low heat. Stir until marshmallows are melted and mixture is smooth. Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla extract. Pour mixture over popcorn in bowl. Toss well to coat popcorn evenly. Line a baking sheet with foil. Spray hands with nonstick cooking spray, then scoop up about 1 cup of popcorn mixture. Shape mixture into a cone shape, keeping the base flat. This forms the tree. Sprinkle tree with decorating sugar; place tree on baking sheet. Continue to make the rest of the trees. Pipe frosting on trees to make a garland, then decorate them with colorful candies.

Tiny trees made of popcorn are in good taste for the holidays.

Serving suggestion: Place each tree on a sugar cookie and decorate your serving tray with shredded coconut to resemble snow.

Notes:

*It's important that this recipe starts with unflavored white popcorn for best color and flavor.

You can make your own colored sugar by adding food coloring to sugar, stirring in a bowl or shaking vigorously in a sealed container. Add more food coloring for more intense tones.

Psalm 139:14-18

I praise you because I am fearfully and wonderfully made; your works are wonderful, I know that full well. My frame was not hidden from you when I was made in the secret place, when I was woven together in the depths of the earth. Your eyes saw my unformed body; all the days ordained for me were written in your book before one of them came to be. How precious to me are your thoughts, God! How vast is the sum of them! Were I to count them, they would outnumber the grains of sand - when I awake, I am still with you.

Substitutions for Plastic by Lisa Luck

Worldwide, the suggested solution for disposal of plastic waste is to recycle. Theoretically, that sounds great! Use a plastic product, put it in a recycling bin and it will be made into another plastic product. This is a simplistic approach to managing plastic waste. The reality is that many of the plastics we use on a regular basis cannot be recycled. Some are toxic (hospital plastic waste, straws), others are not easily recycled (plastics #3-7). Others are not recycled correctly.

If plastic containers are dirty, greasy, or the wrong type of plastic – they contaminate the other plastics in a recycling bin. This makes one of two things happen. 1) It soils all the containers in the bin so all of it has to be discarded instead of recycled. 2) It has to be removed by hand and thrown away which increases the cost of recycling. Ultimately, too much contamination in a bin prevents recycling even if many people are doing it correctly. It is nationally estimated that approximately 30% of plastic collected for recycling is trash – not recyclable materials. Locally, I would suspect that number is higher.

The best solution for plastic waste is not to create it in the first place. Yes, it takes thought and planning to avoid plastic. It is not always convenient to do so. In the grocery store, buying milk or juice in cardboard containers instead of plastic containers is a good start. Although the cardboard containers cannot be recycled, they have less impact on the environment throughout their life than plastics do. Buy powered clothes soap packaged in a box instead of soap in large plastic jugs. The jugs contain more water than soap.

One disposable product frequently used as a substitute for Styrofoam or plastic is paper cups. What could be harmful about paper cups, right? Oh, let me count the ways ... Paper cups are coated with a very thin layer of plastic. When they are littered, the plastic from those cups is dispersed throughout the environment, just like from plastic cups. The layer of plastic contains numerous chemicals that leach into a hot beverage along with the microplastics from the thin plastic layer. When a hot beverage is consumed we are drinking numerous toxic substances along with it. The paper cups cannot be recycled or composted. They must go into the trash. Get in a habit of taking your own coffee cup to work, while traveling, or to church. Encourage the groups and organizations you are a part of to commit to not using disposable products at all.

I was appalled to go to a conference not too long ago and see that plastic water bottles, plastic cups and plastic silverware were still being distributed to participants. I was disappointed to see how many people still willingly accepted water served in these toxic containers. Taking your own water in a stainless steel water bottle is the best choice for the environment and for your health. Refuse to use products containing plastic.

Newspapers Are Alive And Well And Thriving In the Suburbs

As the world has become increasingly digital, print marketing has kept pace or exceeded performance of online offerings. With fewer printed publications and fewer pages being printed, the value of information in newspapers has increased, due to a greater likelihood of being seen, as people are more easily able to read small, suburban community newspapers, cover to cover in a short amount of time. The digital versions of newspapers often have many more pages, as there is comparatively little cost to adding more and more content online.

As online publications are inundated with thousands of requests per day for inclusion of branded content, and the volume of site traffic remains relatively stable, the value of each individual placement in the online versions of newspapers is diminished and diluted by the influx of new information.

The visibility of the printed word as compared with the value of the same word in online versions, has always been far greater, by any measure, which is reflected in the cost of getting seen in newspapers in print versus the digital publication. As the gap widens, and digital publications add more and more pages for sponsored content, advertorials, and the like, the value of the printed word will increase.

For those targeting Boomers or seniors, who generally read more in print than online, the disparity is especially appreciated.

For those targeting Millennials, they will reach more if they cover print than if they don't, both directly, as many read newspapers, starting with High School and College newspapers, and as a result of referred traffic from peers, co-workers, friends and family members. The printed versions can easily be shared online as many are replicated as a pdf version on an affiliated digital site with social media channels. Some take a picture of articles to share.

All things considered, here are five good reasons to add print media to your marketing mix:

1- Printed Newspapers Trigger Multiple Senses: Many people seek time away from touching their mobile phones, computer keyboards, and TV remote controls. It's nice to get the feel of a printed newspaper or magazine, with glossy pages, the smell of the ink, and the sounds of the pages flipping, which have been simulated online in digital flip books, by popular demand. It's easier to see a printed page in bright sunlight, instead of the glare or reflection on a screen.

2- Print Engages More Readily: Content that lives online doesn't engage as well if it is in an abbreviated format, requiring readers to click through to another page to see the rest of the article. Many readers are impatient when reading online, feeling they don't have time to stop and read a whole article or blog post, so they merely skim, scan and move on to the next. Print readers tend to slow down and actually read, not only the news, but also the ads, especially those that are native and relevant to the adjacent articles they read.

3- Brains React Differently To Paper Than Screens: The human brain processes information differently depending on the presentation in print or on a screen. Readers of print have longer attention spans because screens have far more distractions. The act of deep reading, which occurs more naturally in print, creates deep thinking, which means readers can become fully engrossed in the content. When readers see relevant sponsored content next to the publisher generated content, they are more easily swayed to think about that as well.

4- Print Drives Online Engagement: To get people to take action and interact more with your brand, you can capture attention in printed media and drive your audience to your online assets.

5- Adding Newspapers To The Mix Increases ROI: For the message you worked so hard to craft and deliver online, you can get more mileage out of it, for very little extra cost, by covering print media, to reach more people in your target audience, and to achieve goal oriented outcomes.

What is joy? Is it a feeling? An attitude? An emotion? Is it something we "get" or "discover" or "find" on the road of life? Is it temporary or permanent? Can it be passed from one person to another? Is it internal or external? Is it possible it could be all of the above? Things were not going well for Moses. He knew that something was missing in the lives of the Hebrews and he knew what it was: joy. They had been through difficult days and trying times. They grumbled and groaned and griped. They were critical of their conditions and angry with God. Why, they wondered, did they leave what they had for something they had been promised but could not find. They were disenchanted and discouraged. So, Moses, the man of God, knew what to do: He went to God in prayer. "Relent, O Lord! How long will it be? Have compassion on Your servants. Satisfy us in the morning with Your unfailing love that we may sing for joy and be glad all our days." Moses reminded God that He was a God filled with unfailing love. In earnestness he begged God to show His compassion and relent – "We've suffered long enough! When we awaken tomorrow morning," he prayed, "fill our empty hearts with a renewed awareness of Your unfailing love." Moses knew that only God could restore the "joy of their salvation" and the blessings that repentance brings. Often we become like the Israelites - wanting God's blessings without being faithful to Him. Hearts once filled with joy are empty because of sin. It's time to repent!

"Focus, people. We've only got a few days before we begin to rot."

MARRIAGE OR MIRAGE?

Many years ago, my wife and I were friends with a couple for a fairly long time. We would socialize on occasion, visit with each other after Church service on Sunday mornings, and meet for meals. I remember both of them telling us that they have a strong and happy marriage, and that they never argue or fight. They had been married for many years, and appeared to have a very solid marriage. A few years after we had met them, my wife and I moved out of town and no longer had regular contact with them. Shortly after we had moved, we heard from the husband that they had divorced. The wife was having an ongoing affair with another man when she traveled out of state as part of her job. There were other important facts in her life that she had been lying about for a very long time. The "appearance" of a healthy marriage was not backed up by reality. It was not a healthy and happy marriage; it was a mirage.

A strong building first needs a strong foundation. A good and long-lasting marriage also needs a good foundation to build upon. Marriage is first of all a partnership, but it is also much more than a partnership. It is the merging of husband and wife into a brand-new creation. That is why Scripture says, "...a man leaves his father and mother and is united to his wife, and they become one flesh." - Genesis 2: 24. Marriages that are strong have a husband and wife working together towards common goals, and using the resources that both of them have to achieve those goals. Spouses need to serve each other, love each other unconditionally, and be patient with each other's shortcomings. There is no room for one spouse to be giving all while the other spouse is selfish and not giving. Selfishness on the part of the husband, the wife, or both, is a recipe for resentment and marital disaster.

Forgiveness is also an important part of a good marital foundation. Husbands and wives need to confess their mistakes and shortcomings to each other, work on not repeating them in the future, and forgive each other. Forgiveness is the best medicine for healing anger and resentment. Unforgiveness is deadly poison to a good marriage, and must be cast out immediately, long before it takes root and become bitterness.

Marriage is a difficult struggle at times. Good times and troubled times come to all of us. What is important in the difficult times is how we deal with them. It's OK to be angry sometimes, but we must talk about our anger and frustrations with each other, and do our best to correct whatever causes them. It is completely unrealistic that a husband and wife are always happy and content in life. When life gets difficult and painful, we must stick together towards the goal of overcoming the struggles, communicate with love, and seek the help of a good professional counselor when necessary. Everyone needs help from other people; that's why God created us to need one another. So, let's all of us who are married give selflessly to each other and together build marriages that are full of joy, peace, and purpose. When we do this, what people see on the outside will match what is on the inside.

Now faith is confidence in what we hope for and assurance about what we do not see. This is what the ancients were commended for. By faith we understand that the universe was formed at God's command, so that what is seen was not made out of what was visible...And without faith it is impossible to please God, because anyone who comes to him must believe that he exists and that he rewards those who earnestly seek him.
