The Breath of Life

"Lord, you alone are my portion and my cup; you make my lot secure. The boundary lines have fallen for me in pleasant places; surely I have a delightful inheritance. I will praise the Lord, who counsels me; even at night my heart instructs me. I keep my eyes always on the Lord. With him at my right hand, I will not be shaken. Therefore my heart is glad and my tongue rejoices; my body also will rest secure, because you will not abandon me to the realm of the dead, nor will you let your faithful one see decay. You make known to me the path of life; you will fill me with joy in your presence, with eternal pleasures at your right hand."

Learning to Identify Wild Waterfowl

Mallards: North America's most abundant duck has a large body and long wingbeats. At close range, the green heads of drakes distinguish them from the relatively drab hens. Further, drakes have chestnut-colored breasts, which lets you identify them in low light. Be careful, though: Some hens also feature darker breasts, so it's not a sure-fire distinguishing feature.

Black ducks: Most common in the Northeast and Midwest, black ducks look very much like mallards. During bright days, however, you can easily pick out the black duck's much darker body color. Here's another trick: Black ducks appear to have a slight silver coloration on the underside of their wings, as opposed to the whiter tone of mallards. This can help you identify them in flight during poor light.

Before a word is on my tongue you, Lord, know it completely. You hem me in behind and before, and you lay your hand upon me. Such knowledge is too wonderful for me, too lofty for me to attain.

Where can I go from your Spirit? Where can I flee from your presence? If I go up to the heavens, you are there; if I make my bed in the depths, you are there. If I rise on the wings of the dawn, if I settle on the far side of the sea, even there your hand will guide me, your right hand will hold me fast.

Things That Make You Think.....

The first thing I told my grandson's class was that I helped a man die before I was old enough to buy a beer. The whole room just...stopped. Not that loud, shocked quiet. The other kind. The one where you can suddenly hear the hum of the cheap fluorescent lights. I'm seventy-six. My left knee clicks like a typewriter when I stand up, and my voice has more gravel than a country road. But that day, in my grandson Alex's stuffy high school classroom, I saw something on those kids' faces I hadn't seen in a long time. It wasn't just curiosity. It was focus.

The teacher had invited me for "Living History Day." A nice idea. My grandson Alex said last year they had a woman who'd marched with Dr. King. This year, they got me. Alex said they usually get software coders or someone who went "viral" on TikTok. They don't usually get a guy with a piece of shrapnel still floating in his hip. So there I was, standing in an old field jacket that's been too tight since the Clinton administration, feeling a lump in my throat the size of a ration biscuit.

I didn't bring any notes. You don't need notes to talk about hell. I told them about boot camp at Parris Island in '68. How they shaved our heads until we were all just scared, angry ghosts in the same green uniform. How the South Carolina humidity felt like a hot, wet towel you could never take off, and the Drill Instructor peeled the civilian right off your bones.

I told them about the flight to Da Nang. The smell of jet fuel and stale sweat, and the feeling in your gut when the wheels hit the tarmac. I told them the first time I saw a man killed, he didn't scream like in the movies. He just made a soft sound, like a sigh, and was gone. I didn't give them the gore. But I didn't sugarcoat it, either. Then I told them what mattered.

I told them I didn't go to Vietnam because I understood the politics. I went because the draft board sent me a letter. I stayed because of the kid next to me. Because we made a pact to get each other home, even if only one of us was walking. I told them about "Ski." His real name was Mike Petrowski, from the South Side of Chicago. Always talking about the Cubs. He was supposed to go to college, but his dad lost his job at the steel mill. He took a piece of shrapnel from an IED that was meant for the trail in front of us. One minute he was complaining about the heat and his new boots, and the next... I was grabbing for a field dressing that I knew wouldn't do any good. I saw a girl in the back, one with bright blue hair, pull her sleeve over her eyes.

Then, I told them about coming home.

About landing in San Francisco and a college girl, not much older than them, spitting on my uniform. About how my own mom cried, but my dad just grabbed my duffel bag and said, "Well, that's done. Best not to talk about it, Frank. People are... divided." I told them how the silence back home was deafening. How I couldn't sleep in a soft bed for months because the quiet felt more dangerous than the jungle. How I drank a bit too much whiskey and yelled a bit too loud. But I also told them this: The Marine Corps didn't just teach me how to clean a rifle. It taught me how to show up. It taught me how to carry my own pack, and someone else's when they were stumbling. It taught me humility—that you're not special, but what you do can be. I learned that life isn't fair, and you don't get to quit just because you're tired or scared.

A boy in the back with his hood up asked the question. "Was it worth it? Would you... do it again?" I looked at him. "I'd never wish for a war," I said. "But I'm not sorry for who it made me. It made me a man. A flawed one, sure. But one who learned what it means to care about something more than just yourself." The bell rang, but nobody moved. It was so quiet, the teacher had to clear his throat and remind the students to get to their next class.

As they filed out, one of the kids, the quiet one who always sat in the corner, slipped a folded piece of notebook paper into my hand. I opened it in the car. Five words, scrawled in blue ink: "Thank you for being real." That night, Alex gave me a hug that nearly cracked a rib. He said, "Grandpa, nobody even looked at their phone. Not once." I sat on my porch for a long time after that, watching the cars go by. For forty years, I kept my mouth shut. Thought no one wanted to hear it. Thought they'd just see a broken old relic. But maybe I was wrong. Maybe this country, with all its shouting and all its noise, is finally ready to just... listen. Because some stories don't need a filter or a hashtag. They just need someone old enough to remember the truth, and someone young enough to finally hear it.

Your Yard

Beyond Mowing: Checklist for a Healthier Yard

(NAPS)—Don't put away your lawn equipment just yet. Fall isn't just about admiring the colors and taking care of the leaves; it's also a critical time for yard care. The TurfMutt Foundation, which advocates for the care and use of yards, parks, schoolyards and other green spaces, urges homeowners to get outside and start preparing their yards for the seasons ahead.

"Fall is the secret to a successful lawn," said Kris Kiser, President and CEO of the TurfMutt Foundation. "What you do in your yard this season will pay off with a greener, healthier yard next spring. By taking a few simple steps, you can set up your yard for a stunning comeback just in time for next year's backyarding season."

The TurfMutt Foundation shares this fall checklist to ensure our yards—and the planet—stay healthy:

- Aerate the Soil: Aerating creates small holes that let air, water and nutrients reach the roots, making them stronger to withstand the winter. This is especially important in compacted, high-traffic areas.
- Mow at the Right Height: Keep mowing until the first hard frost. For the final cut, lower your mower blade to about two inches. A shorter cut helps prevent mold and allows the grass to dry out quickly in the spring.
- Overseed: Fall is a favorable time to overseed to fill bare spots and make your lawn more resilient. The combination of the warm soil, cool air, and moisture in autumn helps seeds germinate.
- Mulch Leaves: Instead of bagging your leaves, consider mulching them with your mower. Mulched leaves return valuable nutrients back into your lawn, acting as Mother Nature's fertilizer.
- Think About Wildlife: Nature starts at your back door. Limit deadheading and trimming to provide food and shelter for local birds, insects, and other wildlife that rely on our yards during the colder months.

Mulligan the TurfMutt says homeowners should leave leaves on the lawn to make mulch.

- Plant Bulbs for Spring: Before the ground freezes, plant spring-blooming bulbs such as daffodils and tulips that will add a burst of color to your yard in the spring. Use the USDA Plant Hardiness Zone Map to find the best native bulbs for each area: <https://planthardiness.ars.usda.gov/>.

For more "backyarding" ideas and activities to engage kids in the green space around them this fall and beyond, visit www.turfmutt.com.

About the TurfMutt Foundation

TurfMutt was created by the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute's (OPEI) TurfMutt Foundation and has reached more than 70 million children, educators and families since 2009. The Foundation is title sponsor of "Lucky Dog," the Emmy Award-winning CBS broadcast television show in support of dog rescue and rehabilitation. Both TurfMutt spokesdogs have been rescue dogs, and Mutt Mulligan is a cast character on the show, where her "Mulligan Minute" segments teach viewers about the benefits of green space. Championed by Mulligan the TurfMutt, and through education partners such as Scholastic, Discovery, Weekly Reader, and the USBGC Global Learning Lab, TurfMutt has taught students and teachers how to "save the planet, one yard at a time." (NAPS)—Throughout the holiday season, there's a wealth of occasions and reasons to get together with loved ones—from classic celebrations to fun traditions. Whether you're having family over for a pumpkin carving party, hosting this year's Friendsgiving potluck dinner or coordinating an all-night holiday movie marathon with friends, Lindsay® Olives are an excellent food to help make each occasion delicious, memorable and, most importantly, not boring.

Conveniently sized from small to colossal—as well as chopped and sliced—Lindsay olives are bursting with flavor and can enhance recipes for every holiday and “olive” the celebrations in between. Medium black pitted olives add a mild, nutty flavor to these tangy and salty Feta Herb Bites. For a heartier dish, stir in sliced, ripe pitted olives to a meat sauce and layer over pasta noodles, ricotta, and mozzarella cheese. You'll have a delicious lasagna that's great for sharing.

Feta Herb Bites
Prep Time: 10 minutes
Cook Time: 15 minutes
Servings: 4

- Ingredients
- 4 oz cream cheese, at room temperature
 - 6 oz herbed feta cheese, at room temperature
 - 1 can Lindsay Medium Black Ripe Pitted Olives
 - ¾ cup finely crushed walnuts

Cooking Directions

In a medium bowl, combine cream cheese and herbed feta cheese. Coat olives with the cheese mix and form them into balls, completely encasing them in the cheese mixture. Roll the balls in the walnut crumbs to lightly coat them. Chill for at least 30 minutes. Let the cheese balls sit at room temperature for a few minutes before serving. Serve with toothpicks.

Adding a little olive love to your favorite dishes can enhance your holiday—or any day—entertaining.

Best Ever Lasagna
Prep Time: 30 minutes
Cook Time: 45 minutes
Servings: 8

- Ingredients
- 6 long lasagna noodles
 - 1 lb. hot or mild turkey or pork Italian sausage, casings removed
 - 1 medium sweet or yellow onion, chopped
 - 1 green bell pepper, diced
 - 1 (24 oz.) jar spicy or mild tomato basil pasta sauce
 - 1 (3.8 oz.) or 2 (2.25 oz.) cans Lindsay Sliced Ripe Pitted Olives, drained
 - 1 (15 oz.) container light ricotta cheese
 - ½ cup chopped fresh basil or Italian parsley
 - 2 cups (8 oz.) shredded reduced sodium part-skim mozzarella cheese

Cooking Directions

Heat oven to 375°F. Cook noodles according to package directions omitting salt. Meanwhile, cook sausage with onion and bell pepper until sausage is no longer pink, stirring frequently; drain. Stir in pasta sauce and olives; simmer 10 minutes. Combine ricotta cheese and basil in a medium bowl. Spoon 1½ cups meat sauce evenly over bottom of 13 x 9-inch baking dish. Layer 3 noodles, ricotta mixture, 1 cup meat sauce and 1 cup mozzarella cheese evenly over sauce. Top with remaining 3 noodles and all of remaining meat sauce. Cover dish with foil; bake 35 minutes. Uncover; top with remaining 1 cup mozzarella cheese. Bake uncovered 10 minutes or until bubbly. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Garnish with additional chopped basil, if desired.

What good is it, my brothers and sisters, if someone claims to have faith but has no deeds? Can such faith save them? Suppose a brother or a sister is without clothes and daily food. If one of you says to them, "Go in peace; keep warm and well fed," but does nothing about their physical needs, what good is it? In the same way, faith by itself, if it is not accompanied by action, is dead.

But someone will say, "You have faith; I have deeds." Show me your faith without deeds, and I will show you my faith by what I do.

Seeds of Hope

A soldier wrote his dad from a combat zone in a war-torn country. In the upper left hand corner under his name he wrote, "Not Here for Very Long." True of the soldier - true of each of us. Life at its longest is very short in light of eternity. Wisely Moses advised us to go to God and ask Him to: "Teach us to number our days aright, that we may gain a heart of wisdom." Time has no favorites. We are each given twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week and fifty-two weeks a year. It does not matter who we are or what God has called us to do, none of us can add one second of time to our lives once God has called us home. We must guard our time and use it wisely to honor and glorify Him. Time can be used to influence others - one way or another. It would be interesting to keep a record of our time as an accountant does money - what we spent and how we invested it. We could see what we did with our time and discover whether or not we helped or hindered others, led them closer to God or drove them from Him. Time gives us opportunities to serve the Lord. Jesus said, "All of us must quickly carry out the tasks assigned by the One who sent Me and there is little time left before night falls and all our works come to an end." Time ends with an interview. Each of us will stand before God one day and have an opportunity to review our record with Him. What will matter most is whether or not there will be a day when we surrendered our life to Him.

Technology Improving Our Lives

The AI Company Of The Future

(NAPS)—Few people know it yet but in Silicon Valley, there's a small company that may well reshape the future of technology, medicine, defense, and even how planes navigate the skies.

SandboxAQ, a company that Time magazine recently named one of the Top 100 Most Influential Companies in the world, has over 200 employees, including 87 PhDs and 110+ technical engineers.

What's more, more than 46,000 applicants have applied to work at SandboxAQ in the past 12 months and the company only accepts 0.21% of candidates—that's one-fifth of one percent. It is harder to get into SandboxAQ than any Ivy League college. The company has a 91% employee retention rate, which is higher than the benchmark of the tech industry. So what makes this company so special?

AI That Understands the Physical World

It may be because the company is pioneering Quantitative AI—that is, AI models trained not just on language, but on math, physics, biology, and chemistry. It uses Large Quantitative Models (LQMs)—a new class of AI that understands and can simulate complex systems, from atomic interactions to electromagnetic fields to financial transactions.

Where traditional language models focus on probability, SandboxAQ's LQMs are about precision. These models don't hallucinate or guess because they're grounded in the immutable laws of physics and mathematical equations. They can deliver more accurate predictions, new insights, and data that such industries as biopharma, aerospace, energy, and defense can rely on. For instance:

- Drug Discovery: The platform can simulate millions of molecular interactions virtually, using powerful computers instead of expensive, time-consuming physical lab experiments, helping researchers find treatments for Alzheimer's, Parkinson's and cancer faster than before.
- Advanced Materials: SandboxAQ's

A fascinating new book reveals some exciting news about the future of AI.

platform for advanced materials is working to design high-performance batteries, safer chemicals, more sustainable energy solutions, and higher-value products. It is also working with chemical and energy companies and the military to develop advanced materials leveraging its technologies.

- Global Navigation: As GPS signals face a growing global threat of jamming and spoofing, an AQNav system provides a magnetic navigation alternative that uses AI, powerful sensors, and the Earth's own magnetic field to navigate planes in the sky.

Built for the Real Economy

Founded by Jack Hidary, a serial entrepreneur, SandboxAQ is built on decades of work in AI and quantum science. Hidary authored a widely used textbook on quantum computing. His vision for the company is to make AI and quantum technologies the twin engines driving the next 50 years.

Whether it's enabling researchers to design drugs in months instead of decades, helping pilots navigate without GPS, cybersecurity, or creating next generation materials from the entire, vast chemical space, his company's goal is building the foundations for a safer, healthier, sustainable and innovative future.

Hints For Homeowners

Prep Now, Avoid Headaches Later

Prepare for the seasons ahead.

Before the cold and snow hits, get your landscape and power equipment in order.

Outdoor Power Equipment Institute

Fall Landscape Prep:

- Assess equipment needed.
- Prune tree limbs that might fall due to ice and snow.
- Aerate your lawn now for lush turf in the spring.
- Keep kids and pets away from working equipment.

Winter Equipment Prep:

- Read and follow your owner's manual.
- Fuel engines according to manufacturer's specs.
- Never disable or remove safety features.
- Charge batteries.
- Remove debris from the area before snow falls.

Your outdoor power equipment helps you get the job done right.
Check your owner's manual for the best and safest way to operate it through the changing seasons.

Eight Fall outdoor power equipment tips to beat winter hassles.

(NAPS)—Once the grass gets its final cut and the leaves are handled, it's time to swap out the mower, blower, and trimmer for the snow thrower, generator, and chainsaw. The Outdoor Power Equipment Institute (OPEI) says a little prep now can mean less stress—and fewer repair bills—later.

"Your end-of-season routine sets the stage for when the weather turns colder," says Kris Kiser, President and CEO of OPEI, an international trade association representing manufacturers and suppliers of outdoor power equipment, small engines, battery power systems, portable generators, utility and personal transport vehicles, and golf cars.

Here are his 8 quick tips for getting ready for fall and winter and storing warm-weather tools the right way:

1. Follow the manual. Review the manufacturer's guide (download it if you've misplaced it) and follow all safety steps—especially how to shut down equipment quickly. Never disable or remove safety features.

2. Service before storage. Do all maintenance as directed by the owner's manual. Clean, change oil, swap filters, and handle any repairs before parking summer gear. Give winter equipment a once-over, too.

3. Manage fuel smartly. Be sure to run tanks empty before storage. For winter equipment, use fresh fuel (most engines run on no more than 10% ethanol), add stabilizer according to manufacturer's guidelines, and use fuel within 30 days.

4. Charge and store batteries right. Fully charge them, keep them away from metal, and store in a climate-controlled space.

5. Keep gear sheltered. Store summer equipment clean and dry. Keep winter gear handy but out of the weather.

6. Clear the way. Make space in the garage or shed now. Remove yard debris, toys, and other hazards from the yard before snow hides them.

7. Be generator-ready. Stock heavy-duty, outdoor-rated cords long enough to run your generator at a safe distance from the house. Never operate generators indoors or near openings.

8. Keep what's most important inside. When operating any outdoor power equipment, kids and pets should be indoors and supervised.

Comments Made in the Year 1955

"I'll tell you one thing, if things keep going the way they are, it's going to be impossible to buy a week's worth of groceries for $20."

"Have you seen the new cars coming out next year? It won't be long before $2,000 will only buy a used one."

"If cigarettes keep going up in price, I'm going to quit. A quarter a pack is ridiculous."

"Did you hear that the post office is thinking about charging at dime just to mail a letter?"

"If they raise the minimum wage to $1.00, nobody will be able to hire outside help at the store."

"When I first started driving, who would have thought gas would someday cost 29 cents a gallon. Guess we'd be better off leaving the car in the garage."

"Kids today are impossible. Those duck tail hair cuts make it impossible to stay groomed. Next thing you know, boys will be wearing their hair as long as the girls."

"I never thought I'd see the day will our kitchen appliances would be electric. They are even making electric typewriters now."

"It's too bad things are so tough nowadays. I see where a few married women are having to work to make ends meet."

"I'm afraid the Volkswagen car is going to open the door to a lot of foreign competition."

"Did you see where some baseball player just signed a contract for $75,000 a year just to play ball? It wouldn't surprise me if someday they'll be making more than the President."

"It won't be long before young couples are going to have to hire someone to watch their kids so they can both work."

"The drive-in restaurant is convenient in nice weather, but I seriously doubt they will ever catch on."

"There is no sense in driving to Lincoln or Omaha anymore for the weekend; it costs nearly $15 a night to stay in a hotel."

"No one can afford to be sick anymore; at $35 a day in the hospital it's too rich for my blood."

"If they think I'll pay 50 cents for a haircut, forget it."

Waterfowl Fun Facts

⇒ Waterfowl (ducks, geese and swan) can be found on every continent except Antarctica. This has required the species to adapt to a variety of climates: from the tropics to the High Arctic and to oceans and deserts.

⇒ All the waterfowl in North America can dive, but the long-tailed duck is the best of all waterfowl. In Lake Ontario, more than 80 of the birds were caught in fishing nets at the depth of 240 feet.

⇒ The trumpet swan which can weigh 35 pounds or more is the largest Northern American waterfowl. In contrast the largest duck, the common eider, weighs only six pounds.

⇒ The average flight speed for waterfowl is 50mph, with a 50 mph tail wind this means that migrating mallards are capable of traveling 800 miles if they fly for 8 hours.

⇒ Wood ducks are the only North American waterfowl to routinely raise two broods in one year. This is possible because of the mild temperatures in the South which allows the wood duck to begin nesting as late as January.

⇒ Waterfowl have as many as 12,000 separate muscles used for feather control. Duck and geese use these muscles to lift or compress their plumage in various ways to help dive underwater, express emotions and to help regulate body heat.

⇒ In 1911, a gold rush was spurred in western Nebraska after hunters found small gold nuggets in the gizzards of ducks they had shot. However, the source of the gold was never discovered.

Whoever dwells in the shelter of the Most High will rest in the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the Lord, "He is my refuge and my fortress, my God, in whom I trust." Surely he will save you from the fowler's snare and from the deadly pestilence. He will cover you with his feathers, and under his wings you will find refuge; his faithfulness will be your shield and rampart. You will not fear the terror of night, nor the arrow that flies by day, nor the pestilence that stalks in the darkness, nor the plague that destroys at midday. thousand may fall at your side, ten thousand at your right hand, but it will not come near you.

Fast Fashion by Lisa Luck

We all wear clothes. That is not only the the custom but is also the law. Life is not as simple as it used to be and that is reflected in the number of clothes each of us has hanging in our closets and are folded in the dresser. Back before the years of plenty each person would only have a few outfits – one for church, weddings and funerals and another one or two for working or playing in. Now, according to fashion marketing, different occasions warrant different outfits. Now specialized clothing is available for each and every activity in which we participate.

We are only limited in clothing by the amount of money we are willing to spend to acquire it. According to statistics from Uniform Market, the average annual amount spent on clothing for each household is around $2,000. This is approximately 60% more than was spent annually a decade ago. In 2025, the U.S. clothing market was valued at approximately $365.70 billion. According to A Drop in the Ocean, 10% of global carbon emissions come from the textile industry. It is the fifth leading cause of emissions worldwide. Transportation, agriculture, methane gas from landfills and the production of electricity are also contributors to greenhouse gases.

Fast fashion has cashed in on the clothing market by providing discounted clothing. Using inexpensive materials from synthetic fibers, the newest styles are made in bulk and marketed worldwide. Synthetic fibers are made primarily from fossil fuels. After just a few washings they wear out and are discarded either through donating to a charity or put into the trash. It is estimated that Americans discard over 80 pounds of clothing per year per person. Approximately 65% of clothes purchased are discarded within one year.

Unfortunately, less than 15% of donated clothing is recycled or reused. This is because much of the clothing that is donated belongs in the garbage – not in a thrift bin. The remaining 85% of donated textiles goes to landfills, is incinerated, or is dumped illegally where it pollutes the environment. Textiles that cannot be used in the U.S. are often sent to other countries at a discounted price. This can cause problems in other countries because they are then responsible for the disposal of the trash.

Recycle clothing and other textiles by donating them to local thrift shops. The best items will be priced and resold. Other not-so-good textiles will be recycled into mattresses, insulation or used for rags. Make sure fabrics are clean. Torn or overly worn clothing must go into the trash instead of being donated.

We all need clothes – but how much is too much? Shopping impulsively or for fun leads to waste. Buy only what you need. Buy high quality clothing that can be used for years rather than weeks. Buy clothing made from natural materials instead of plastic fibers such as nylon, rayon or polyester. The sale of clothing is big business and it impacts the environment. Reduce your purchases and recycle used clothing!

Youth Villages is a private, nonprofit organization dedicated to helping children with emotional and behavioral problems and their families live successfully.

We provide direct help to thousands of children and families each year; partner with innovative states and high-performing nonprofit organizations that use our effective program models; and advocate for positive change to child welfare systems around the country.

Our approach involves intensive work with the child and family; a focus on measuring outcomes; keeping children in the community whenever safely possible; and providing accountability to families and funders. The Youth Villages approach produces lasting, positive change for children.

While we help children from birth to age 22, the majority of the children who receive services from Youth Villages are between 12 and 17.

Children come to us because of emotional and behavioral disorders, physical or sexual abuse, substance abuse, or suicidal ideation or attempt. Our LifeSet program is a bridge from foster care to successful adulthood for young people who have experienced foster care.

More than 85% of Youth Villages children have multiple problems, which may include developmental or learning disabilities, as well as family issues and instability.

Humble yourselves, therefore, under God's mighty hand, that he may lift you up in due time. Cast all your anxiety on him because he cares for you.

Be alert and of sober mind. Your enemy the devil prowls around like a roaring lion looking for someone to devour. Resist him, standing firm in the faith, because you know that the family of believers throughout the world is undergoing the same kind of sufferings. And the God of all grace, who called you to his eternal glory in Christ, after you have suffered a little while, will himself restore you and make you strong, firm and steadfast. To him be the power for ever and ever. Amen.
