The Breath of Life

“I saw the Holy City, the new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride beautifully dressed for her husband. And I heard a loud voice from the throne saying, “Look! God’s dwelling place is now among the people, and he will dwell with them. They will be his people, and God himself will be with them and be their God. ‘He will wipe every tear from their eyes. There will be no more death’ or mourning or crying or pain, for the old order of things has passed away.”

Be Your Best You

(NAPSA)—The next time New Year's, your birthday or any other time when you tend to make resolutions rolls around, you won't have to make—and break—unreasonable promises to yourself if you tap into your best self.

For most people, living a healthy lifestyle means making permanent changes. While you can't expect overnight results, some small adjustments over time can help. Just remember to consult your doctor before starting any new diet or exercise regimen.

You can create a healthier new you by changing a few habits for 21 days.

Create Healthy Habits

- Set small goals that are specific, measurable, attainable, realistic, timely/tangible (S.M.A.R.T.) and share them with others to stay accountable.
- Choose good foods. Eat whole grains, a variety of colorful fruits and vegetables, and lean proteins. Use spices instead of salt.
- Stay hydrated, but don't drink your calories. Swap out sugar for an all-natural, zero-calorie sweetener such as Pure Via®, made with a sweet extract of the stevia plant.

Stick to this plan for at least 21 days. That's the average length of time it takes to create a new habit.

For a conversion table on replacing sugar, a variety of sweet and savory recipes and more information, visit www.purevia.com.

Upholstered Furniture Shopping Tips: 7 Questions to Ask

Asking the right questions lets you relax and enjoy furniture shopping.

5. Is flexibility in configuration important? If you plan to stay in your home for many more years, it may not matter if the furniture you buy can adapt. But if you plan to move, or simply like to rearrange furniture periodically, today's modular styles create endless arrangement possibilities and eliminate permanent left or right alignments.

6. What's inside? People are increasingly concerned about the materials they bring into their homes that might affect indoor air quality. Look for upholstered furniture made with CertiPUR-US® certified foam. Certified foams are made without formaldehyde; ozone depleters; mercury, lead and other heavy metals; or phthalates regulated by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. It also means the foam has low VOC (volatile organic compound) emissions for indoor air quality (less than 0.5 parts per million). Certified foams are screened for relevant chemicals, including flame retardants, that are classified as carcinogens, mutagens or reproductive toxins and are harmful to human health. Visit certipur.us/directory to find manufacturers and retailers offering upholstered furniture, mattresses and pillows made with certified foam before you make a purchase.

7. When will it be delivered? If you are shopping with a deadline in mind and need that new recliner before a major event or holiday, plan ahead. If you customize your purchase, check on the delivery time frame and plan ahead.

Enjoy the shopping process—and treasure your new investment for years to come.

(NAPS)—Are you shopping for upholstered furniture? Whether you are furnishing a new home, updating a room, or replacing a single item, there are many factors to consider. Here are seven questions to ask to help you make an informed decision:

1. Will it fit? Measure the length and width of your room, including windows, alcoves, and doorways. Create a floor plan on paper with the measurements to scale. Sketch the dimensions of furniture you like and what you plan to keep. Recreate your plan on the floor, marking spaces for each piece with tape (painter's tape may not damage the floor). Alternatively, you could use an interior design app. Some retailers have online features that will let you "picture" how a new item looks in your space.

2. What's your style? Magazines and design look-books, as well as Pinterest and Houzz, are terrific for honing your style. Visiting local stores and seeing the wide array of choices in person can also help. Don't hesitate to take advantage of design consultations—virtual or in-home—offered by many furniture stores.

3. Will it clean up and wear well? Ask your salesperson how the fabric will age over time and how to clean it. Is it stain-resistant? Will its color fade from sunlight streaming through a window? Fabrics are subjected to a "rub test" to rate their durability. A fabric should be at least 15,000 rubs for heavily trafficked areas, such as living and family rooms. Medium duty (9,000-15,000 rubs) may be adequate for less-used areas. Some fabrics are rated for family and pet friendliness! Ask for a sample swatch and experiment with how the sample cleans up after a coffee or wine spill. You might be surprised to find out how strong and stain-resistant many performance fabrics are made.

4. Does it make sense to invest in better quality furniture? High-quality, better-made upholstered furniture generally costs more because it is built with materials that are designed to last longer. A small percentage increase in cost now can translate to a sofa that maintains its shape and comfort for much longer.

But what does it say? "The word is near you; it is in your mouth and in your heart," that is, the message concerning faith that we proclaim: If you declare with your mouth, "Jesus is Lord," and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved. For it is with your heart that you believe and are justified, and it is with your mouth that you profess your faith and are saved.

As Scripture says, "Anyone who believes in him will never be put to shame." For there is no difference between Jew and Gentile - the same Lord is Lord of all and richly blesses all who call on him, for, "Everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved."

Seeds of Hope

Everyone seems to worship someone or something for one reason or another. Early in life we realize that we need help to survive and cannot make it on our own. Initially it is a parent or a parent substitute that is there to help us. Then, as we get older and become more independent, we begin to realize that there are other sources to meet our needs. We begin to look to them for what they can do for us or perhaps give to us in exchange for our allegiance or respect. We think that they will bring us something we need. It's only natural. The question is not whether or not we worship - but what or whom we worship. It can be fame or fortune, power or prestige, a person or a philosophy someone or something that we believe is greater than ourselves and will bring us peace and happiness, joy and satisfaction. It is someone or something that we believe is superior to us and we are willing to surrender and submit ourselves to it. But, really, it only reveals our lostness and our need for someone who is above us, beyond us - yet cares for us. The Psalmist invites us to, "Come, let us worship and bow down, let us kneel before the Lord our Maker." He wants us to recognize the superiority and sufficiency of God our Creator. Once we acknowledged God as our Creator we immediately recognize Him as the source of all that we have or ever will have. Worship becomes God-centered and not man or thing centered. Worship results in turning our lives over to God and recognizing His grace and sovereignty as we bow before Him in awe.

Wisdom is the reward you get for a lifetime of listening when you'd have preferred to talk.

How Dental Care Has Changed Over the Last Century

(NAPS)—Regarded by many as one of the oldest medical professions, dentistry has been practiced for thousands of years. Over the last century, dentistry has advanced from triaging decaying teeth to focusing on preventive care. Practice and study have built dentists' understanding of how oral hygiene affects not only the mouth, but many different facets of health.

Understanding tooth decay's roots

Many may be surprised to hear that toothbrushing only began to be widely adopted in the 1940s as a grooming routine to improve the look of teeth. It wasn't established until the 1960s that bacteria in plaque caused tooth decay, and brushing was the best way to fight plaque.

In modern dentistry, it is understood that plaque is a living bacterial biofilm, which contains bacteria that feed on sugar. These bacteria create acids that degrade and destroy teeth over time, resulting in cavities. Today, dentists recommend brushing twice a day, flossing daily, and visiting the dentist at least once a year for preventive care (and for some with certain medical conditions, up to four times a year).

Minerals' role in fortifying teeth

In the early 1900s, products such as tooth powder were popular before the toothpaste commonly sold today. These powders contained abrasive ingredients including calcium carbonate, powdered charcoal, or baking soda. Vitamins and minerals taken specifically for oral health didn't come about until the early 1900s, when fluoride began to be used in tooth powders to prevent decay.

Today, fluoride is in most toothpaste on the market. Additionally, dentists apply fluoride to patients' teeth in the form of foam, gel, or varnish during checkups. Fluoride is particularly important for children, since their teeth need extra protection as they grow.

Treating the mouth as the gateway to the body

Though gum disease has been observed throughout history, it wasn't until modern dentistry that it was understood to cause other health complications. In addition to causing gum inflammation, bleeding, and tooth loss, gum disease is linked to respiratory disease, rheumatoid arthritis, coronary artery disease, and diabetic complications.

Pulling teeth: the rise of modern dental implants

Early in the 1900s, it was not a priority to protect and keep original teeth; often, decaying teeth were simply pulled. Today, dentists use implants to replace severely decayed or damaged teeth. Modern implants attach firmly in place and are topped with a crown that looks and acts like a natural tooth.

When you visit your dentist today, you can benefit from decades of knowledge.

Planning for a healthy future

“The best way to maintain healthy teeth, limit tooth decay, and avoid implants is to maintain an oral health care routine,” said Dr. Greg Theis, Chief Dental Officer at Delta Dental of Wisconsin. “In keeping with the latest research, many insurers, including Delta Dental of Wisconsin, have introduced plans with extended benefits for those who need them most.”

For example, for those with an intellectual or developmental disability, the Special Health Care Needs Benefit provides additional dental office visits, cleanings, and treatment modifications for patient comfort. The Evidence-Based Integrated Care Plan includes extra dental benefits for those with diabetes, kidney disease, cancer, pregnancy, and other medical conditions.

Dentistry has radically evolved over the last century. Today, people can benefit from years of study and access to modern care with providers to help maintain their best oral health.

Italian Subs—Restaurant Style

This is an Italian sandwich sub with three kinds of meat and provolone cheese. The kind you get in a mom-and-pop pizza joint. You'll be glad you tried it!

Additional Time: 1 hr
Total Time: 1 hr 20 mins
Servings: 8

Ingredients

- 1 head red leaf lettuce, rinsed and torn
- 2 medium fresh tomatoes, chopped
- 1 medium red onion, chopped
- 6 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 tablespoons white wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
- 2 cloves garlic, chopped
- 1 teaspoon dried basil
- ¼ teaspoon red pepper flakes
- 1 pinch dried oregano
- ½ pound sliced Capicola sausage
- ½ pound thinly sliced Genoa salami

The Jerusalem artichoke is not a native of Jerusalem or the Near East. Jerusalem is a corruption of the Italian word girasole, which means "turning to the sun." Nor is it an artichoke, but a tuber, well known to American Indians and then brought by explorers to France.

In Iceland, people bake their bread in the ground. Residents often use geothermal heat to bake bread by burying a pot of dough near a geyser and placing a stone on top. This alerts locals that bread is underneath so it won't be disturbed while it sits for about a day.

Do not be deceived: God cannot be mocked. A man reaps what he sows. Whoever sows to please their flesh, from the flesh will reap destruction; whoever sows to please the Spirit, from the Spirit will reap eternal life. Let us not become weary in doing good, for at the proper time we will reap a harvest if we do not give up. Therefore, as we have opportunity, let us do good to all people, especially to those who belong to the family of believers.

Cigarette Butts Are Pollution by Lisa Luck

The most littered materials in the United States are cigarette butts. According to Keep America Beautiful, cigarette butts make up approximately 38% of litter found in the United States. Approximately ten percent of adults in the U.S. smoke cigarettes, and littering is the most common way that smokers dispose of their cigarette butts. Seventy-five percent of smokers admit they discard cigarette butts by littering. In 2025, an average of 158 billion cigarettes were consumed in the U.S. Worldwide, over 4.5 trillion butts are littered into the environment annually.

Studies show that the leading cause of preventable death and disease is smoking cigarettes. Thanks to ongoing health campaigns in the media, we know the effect tobacco has on our bodies. But cigarettes and the tobacco industry also have a tremendous impact on the environment. Approximately 600 million trees are chopped down annually and are used in the manufacturing of cigarettes. The trees are used as fuel to cure the tobacco and also to package the tobacco for consumption.

Cigarette butts contain plastic. When the cigarette burns, plastic is released into the atmosphere and is inhaled into the lungs. Cigarette butts take years to break down. They degrade into microplastics rather than decomposing and then persist indefinitely in the environment. Microplastics pollute the soil, wash into waterways and affect all living organisms. Littered cigarette butts release chemicals such as arsenic and lead and can be fatally toxic to fish and other micro-organisms.

It is reported that 27 million pounds of pesticides and other chemicals are used each year to grow fields of tobacco. Pesticides pollute soil, air and water. According to the American Lung Association, 7,000 chemicals (with a minimum of 69 of those definitely shown to cause cancer) are released into the environment each time a cigarette is smoked. Smoking contributes to hazardous air pollution and global warming. Nicotine is extremely addictive and manufacturers take advantage of this to market their products. Biologically engineered tobacco plants have twice the level of nicotine than other plants making it more likely that any person who smokes tobacco will get addicted. For many, it can be impossible to quit.

Many people who smoke also litter. Litter from cigarettes tends to collect in low areas and is unsightly. When cleaning up cigarette butts, each butt must be picked up individually with a litter grabber and takes a lot of effort and time. It is not recommended that cigarette butts be picked up without protection. Saliva from a smoker can expose those who clean up litter barehanded to viruses or disease. The presence of cigarette butts invites additional litter. Cigarette butts contribute to lowered property values. Parks and natural areas littered with cigarette litter are unappealing and often avoided. Litter contributes to a decrease in tourism which impacts local economy.

If you are a smoker, dispose of cigarette butts by putting them out completely and discarding them in a trash container. Throwing smoking cigarette butts onto the ground is a fire hazard. Please do not litter.

In these unsteady times....

Let's face it, we are all experiencing some financial strain and nervousness. If you aren't...you're lying to yourself and everyone else around you. I'll be the first one to admit that making a quick stop at the store for that something extra for dinner, is thought about more than twice now. Usually with the decision to do without.

The question that I ask myself more than ever before is simple, "Why did it take me so long to realize that our spending was out of control?" "What magical formula was put in my morning coffee that woke me up to the simple reality of what is truly important in our lives?" To be bluntly honest, it was our sense of entitlement that got us to where we are now. It was a sense of having earned that extra splurge on our family vacation. It was a sense of being owed.....but by whom?

The same attitude which pervades our society and has gotten us in the financial mess that we are in, also resides in our spiritual walk. As Christians, we are responsible for our lukewarm walk in this life. We are responsible for letting a small minority take our constitutional, God-give rights away from us. We have been asleep at the wheel and on auto pilot for way too long. When did we consciously decide to sit back and let everyone else steer the car? At what time did we assume someone else was going to be responsible. Shame on us! This is how prayer and God have been wiped out of our schools. This is why we have to vote on the definition of marriage at the polls. This is why we are watching our government borrow billions of dollars we can't afford to pay back... to take care of someone else's mess.

Well...it's time to quite blaming the other guy for not voting right. It's time to be vocal about what's right and what's not. It's time to learn this lesson once and for all. It's not Bobby Joe or Peggy Sue's responsibility. It's mine, yours, the neighbors, our pastor's, the lady who cuts our hair, the Post Master...that means everyone. Let's quite the whining and realize that we are in this mess of our own doing. So..put a little oil on the whine, pull up your sleeves, and let's all get to work. It's not too late to fix this mess!

How beautiful on the mountains are the feet of those who bring good news, who proclaim peace, who bring good tidings, who proclaim salvation, who say to Zion, "Your God reigns!" Listen! Your watchmen lift up their voices; together they shout for joy. When the Lord returns to Zion, they will see it with their own eyes.

Burst into songs of joy together, you ruins of Jerusalem, for the Lord has comforted his people, he has redeemed Jerusalem. The Lord will lay bare his holy arm in the sight of all the nations, and all the ends of the earth will see the salvation of our God.

a Father

How does a man become a father? The answer to that question goes well beyond biology. Being a birth father alone does not make a man a real father. A genuine father helps to raise his children. Providing for the material needs of a child is important; however, it is only the beginning of the journey of fatherhood. The longest and most challenging part of being a father is the process of teaching your children the important lessons of life. Many of the lessons that I learned from my father are still in me, and impact my life every day. My father taught me to work hard and to work smart. If I wanted something special in addition to the basics of life (food, shelter, clothing, and such), I had to work to earn money to buy it. I did a great deal of yard work and other odd jobs to earn money to buy the extra things that I wanted. Those things meant a great deal to me because I had to work hard to acquire them.

My father also taught me to respect authority. Many years ago, just before my senior year of high school, I got my first regular job with a standard employer at a supermarket. Although I liked the job for the most part, I still complained about some parts of the job. I also complained sometimes about how my boss was being unfair to me. My father told me in reply, "The boss might not always be right, but he's always the boss." At 17 years old, I did not want to hear that, but even at that young age, I knew he was right.

Among the many other lessons that my father taught me were to count my blessings and thank God for them every day; be humble; and don't be judgemental towards other people because I've never lived their lives and don't know their history. He also taught me the importance of being generous and helping other people. The list of what I learned from my father is too long to put on paper in one sitting; however, those lessons are part of who I am today. He has been in Heaven for nearly 29 years, and I still find myself saying very often in conversations with family and friends, words that begin with: "my Dad often told me..."

To all fathers, I would like to share this observation: I did not like to hear everything that my father taught me over the years, but those lessons have stayed with me for a lifetime, and I have shared them with my own children.

Happy Fathers Day

This is how we know what love is: Jesus Christ laid down his life for us. And we ought to lay down our lives for our brothers and sisters. If anyone has material possessions and sees a brother or sister in need but has no pity on them, how can the love of God be in that person? Dear children, let us not love with words or speech but with actions and in truth. This is how we know that we belong to the truth and how we set our hearts at rest in his presence...Dear friends, if our hearts do not condemn us, we have confidence before God and receive from him anything we ask, because we keep his commands and do what pleases him.
