The Breath of Life

The Spirit of the Sovereign Lord is on me, because the Lord has anointed me
to proclaim good news to the poor.
He has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted,
to proclaim freedom for the captives
and release from darkness for the prisoners, to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor
and the day of vengeance of our God,
to comfort all who mourn,
and provide for those who grieve in Zion - to bestow on them a crown of beauty
instead of ashes,
the oil of joy instead of mourning, and a garment of praise instead of a spirit of despair.
They will be called oaks of righteousness,
a planting of the Lord
for the display of his splendor.

The Brownie camera, introduced by Kodak in 1900, was named after popular cartoon characters of the time. The tie-in was intended to help get children interested in photography.

The word "ballad" comes from the Italian ballare, meaning "to dance." Ballads were originally songs sung to dance music.

Understanding Science News About Exposure To Toxic Substances

(NAPSA)—If you're like many Americans, you're concerned about the health effects—to yourself and the environment—of exposure to toxic substances.

Fortunately, when you see news reports on scientific research, there are some simple ways to figure out what the new research means for you. When evaluating scientific studies regarding chemicals and toxic substances, you should ask the following questions:

• Has the study been reproduced or is this a one-time reporting event? If it hasn't been reproduced, the results may not be predictive of the response in most people.

• Was the study conducted on experimental animals, cell cultures, or based on human evidence? If it's one of the first two, the results might be informative, but don't always directly translate to responses in people.

• How do the dose levels in the study compare to actual or predicted human use levels? Frequently, because toxicologists are interested in determining the ability of a substance to cause harm (e.g. the worst-case scenario), they use experimental doses that are much higher than the amounts humans or the environment will experience.

• What was the route of exposure used in the study; that is, did the study employ one of the three basic ways by which humans are often exposed—by eating or drinking, breathing, or placing the substance on the skin—or were invasive approaches, such as intravenous injection, used? The effects of toxic substances can depend strongly on the route of exposure, an important factor that must be considered in evaluating the likelihood of harm.

People should be aware how scientific studies relate to actual human risk or benefit.

The expert members of the Society of Toxicology also point out that risk is composed of two key variables: hazard (the capability of something to cause harm) and exposure (the amount of something a subject experiences over a defined period of time). Both variables need to be present for a risk to exist. A potential hazard associated with a chemical, natural toxin, or other agent needs to be accompanied by expected or actual human exposures to pose a health risk.

By answering these important questions, you'll be better able to understand the risks you may—or may not—actually face.

But godliness with contentment is great gain. For we brought nothing into the world, and we can take nothing out of it. But if we have food and clothing, we will be content with that. Those who want to get rich fall into temptation and a trap and into many foolish and harmful desires that plunge people into ruin and destruction. For the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil. Some people, eager for money, have wandered from the faith and pierced themselves with many griefs.

The righteous cry out, and the Lord hears them; he delivers them from all their troubles. The Lord is close to the brokenhearted and saves those who are crushed in spirit.

The righteous person may have many troubles, but the Lord delivers him from them all; he protects all his bones, not one of them will be broken. Nothing in all creation is hidden from God's sight. Everything is uncovered and laid bare before the eyes of him to whom we must give account. Therefore, since we have a great high priest who has ascended into heaven, Jesus the Son of God, let us hold firmly to the faith we profess. For we do not have a high priest who is unable to empathize with our weaknesses, but we have one who has been tempted in every way, just as we are - yet he did not sin. Let us then approach God's throne of grace with confidence, so that we may receive mercy and find grace to help us in our time of need.

Finding A Balance Between Work And Family

(NAPS)—According to a recent survey, 60 percent of the nation's workforce feels it is difficult to be professionally successful as well as highly involved in family and life relationships. As a result, a growing number of job seekers are looking for career opportunities with flexible work environments, with companies that are supportive and understanding of personal and family needs.

To help achieve a healthy balance between life at work and at home, 51 percent of survey respondents attributed the Internet as a way to obtain career management information.

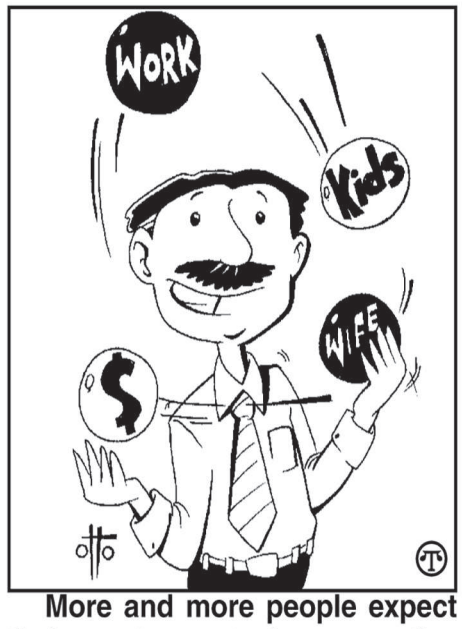

"There have been many work and life developments, but this survey shows that companies must continue to develop programs, technologies and benefits aimed at helping workers juggle their work and life responsibilities," said Diane Strahan, vice president of marketing at CareerBuilder, a leading Internet career network.

Additional findings from the "Balancing Work and Life" survey, conducted by SurveySite for CareerBuilder, include:

• 74 percent of respondents said the ability to work from home is the most desired family-friendly job perk, followed by time off for family-related issues (69 percent) and flex-time (63 percent).

• 49 percent of respondents deliberately sought out a more flexible work environment, 43 percent schedule special days to spend with family or friends and 43 percent deliberately take personal days.

• 87 percent of U.S. workers seek out an employer who is supportive and understanding of personal/family needs.

More and more people expect their employers to be supportive and understanding of personal and family needs.

Berry Chantilly Sheet Cake

This berry Chantilly sheet cake takes everything you love about the signature Whole Foods cake and turns it into an easy-to-serve sheet cake, layered with fluffy Chantilly cream and topped with four kinds of fresh berries. It's the perfect dessert for cookouts, summer gatherings, and Fourth of July celebrations—and you'll understand the obsession after one bite.

INGREDIENTS:

Cake
4 large eggs
1 1/4 cups white sugar
2 cups cake flour or all-purpose flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup whole milk
1/4 cup unsalted butter
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon salt

Topping
2 cups halved strawberries
1 cup halved blackberries
1 cup raspberries
1 cup blueberries

Chantilly Cream
8 ounces cream cheese
8 ounces mascarpone
1 1/4 cups heavy cream
3/4 cup confectioners suga

Directions

➪ Preheat the oven to 350 degrees F (175 degrees C). Grease a 9x13" baking pan and line with parchment. Set aside.

➪ Add eggs and sugar to the bowl of a stand mixer fitted with whisk attachment. Whip on medium-high speed until very thick and pale, 5-7 min.

➪ Meanwhile, whisk together cake flour and baking powder in a separate bowl.

➪ Heat milk and butter until butter has melted and milk is steaming, but not boiling; remove from heat and stir in vanilla and salt.

➪ Add half of flour mixture to eggs and sugar, and mix on lowest speed until almost combined. Beat in warm milk mixture on low speed. Beat in remaining flour mixture just until no flour streaks remain. Pour batter into the prepared pan.

➪ Bake in the preheated oven until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean, 28 to 32 minutes. Let cool.

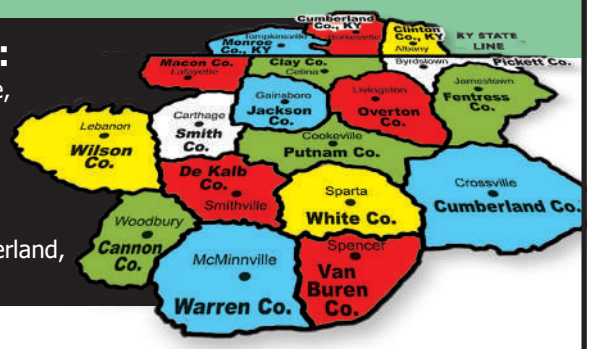

➪ Stir strawberries, blackberries, raspberries, and blueberries together in a small bowl and set aside.

➪ For chantilly cream: beat cream cheese, mascarpone, and confectioner's sugar until creamy. Add half of heavy cream slowly with mixer running on low until incorporated, then add remaining cream. Whip on medium-high until medium peaks form, 2 to 3 minutes.

➪ Spread chantilly cream on top of cooled cake. Top with berry mixture. Best served immediately, but can be refrigerated for a few hours ahead of time.

To some who were confident of their own righteousness and looked down on everyone else, Jesus told this parable: "Two men went up to the temple to pray, one a Pharisee and the other a tax collector. The Pharisee stood by himself and prayed: 'God, I thank you that I am not like other people - robbers, evildoers, adulterers - or even like this tax collector. I fast twice a week and give a tenth of all I get.'

"But the tax collector stood at a distance. He would not even look up to heaven, but beat his breast and said, 'God, have mercy on me, a sinner.' "I tell you that this man, rather than the other, went home justified before God. For all those who exalt themselves will be humbled, and those who humble themselves will be exalted."

In the 1890s, the Victor Talking Machine company of Camden, New Jersey, introduced the first flat phonograph record.

It's not unusual to hear someone say, "But I don't want to be a role model." But that's not the way it is. All of us are, at one time or another, a model who someone will try to imitate for one reason or another. David made this observation a long time ago. "My eyes will be on the faithful in the land," he said. When David looked for a role model he did not look for one who was famous or powerful, one who had wealth or riches, he looked for one who was "faithful to the Lord." He was committed to build his life on God's principles - principles that were eternal and everlasting. So, he searched for those who had God's purposes and plans in their minds and hearts, those were obedient to God. And when he found them he surrounded himself with them and even invited them to "dwell" with him. Someone once asked John Rockefeller, "How did you become so successful?" He looked at him sternly and said, "Because I surround myself with successful people!" Here we find a great lesson for life: If we want to achieve great things for God, we must surround ourselves with people who have done or are doing great things for God. We cannot become more than we are for God if we associate with and follow the examples of those who do not care much for God or do not have loving and serving God at the very center of their lives. David expressed his need for being surrounded by the "faithful." He knew that "He whose walk is blameless will minister to me."

Remember that children, marriages, and flower gardens reflect the kind of care they get.

How To Reduce Waste

by Lisa Luck

Managing waste in Tennessee is an ongoing problem. As the population increases, so does the trash. In Tennessee, 92% of the trash collected is sent to a landfill for disposal. Contents are compressed and covered with dirt. The trash decomposes very slowly due to the lack of oxygen and must be monitored for decades to track pollution that contaminates the atmosphere, soil or water. In the past, landfills were relatively inexpensive. Increases in costs and regulations have reduced available landfills. Five out of seven landfills in Middle Tennessee will close within a decade or less and disposal costs will increase.

The average Tennessee resident discards an estimated 32% more waste than residents of other states. One of the reasons we discard more is partially due to the rapid increase in population. Educating the public on how, where and when to recycle takes time. When people move in from other states, they often do not make the effort to learn how to recycle in Tennessee. Every county recycles differently and this causes confusion which deters recycling. Since landfill costs are frequently funded by taxes rather than by direct cost to the consumer, there is little incentive for recycling.

Tennesseans discarded approximately 13 million tons of waste in 2025. Waste could be reduced by 75% or more if residents managed waste using best practices. Waste can be reduced by purchasing less, recycling materials that are recyclable, avoiding products with packaging that can't be recycled and by composting organic waste.

Our recycling rate is far below the national average. When compared to other states, Tennessee's rate is 48th in the country. Approximately 50% of the waste generated in Tennessee can be recycled. Recyclable materials include cardboard, metals and paper. Recycling plastics has become extremely difficult in the U.S. due to collection costs and the expense in recycling. Manufactures continue to utilize plastic packaging because it costs less for them. When the cost to the environment is considered, using plastic for disposable products is not feasible. It is recommended that plastic be avoided. Instead of buying products in plastic jugs, purchase them in cardboard containers. Although the waxed cardboard cannot be recycled, it does not impact the environment as much as plastic waste does. Purchase products packaged in aluminum as this material is easily recycled.

Organic, or food waste, makes up 25% or more of the waste stream. Composting organic waste decreases methane emissions from landfills. Methane gas is a byproduct created when organic waste decomposes without oxygen. When organic waste has oxygen available when decomposing, methane gas is not created. The easiest way to reduce food waste is to only buy what you can eat. Americans throw away 40% of the food they purchase because it spoils before it can be consumed. With food prices climbing each week, reducing food waste will also reduce how much we spend on groceries.

We are all responsible for the waste we generate. Reduce waste by purchasing less, donating goods that can be reused, recycling and composting.

You may say to yourself, "My power and the strength of my hands have produced this wealth for me." But remember the Lord your God, for it is he who gives you the ability to produce wealth, and so confirms his covenant, which he swore to your ancestors, as it is today.

If you ever forget the Lord your God and follow other gods and worship and bow down to them, I testify against you today that you will surely be destroyed. Like the nations the Lord destroyed before you, so you will be destroyed for not obeying the Lord your God.

Relationships

Humility as defined in the Cambridge dictionary as: ""the feeling or attitude that you have no special importance that makes you better than others; lack of pride." A person who is humble understands that he or she is not more important or more valuable than anyone else. Each of us is different in our skills, abilities, and life experiences. Yet every person has a part to play in our society. Think about what it takes to put food on our tables. A farmer prepares soil and plants the seeds by which the food grows. The rain waters the seeds, or, in many cases, irrigation systems bring the water to the fields. When the crops are ready for harvest, farm workers collect the crops and bring them to the barns. A truck driver delivers the food to a distributor, who brings it to a store where it is purchased and brought home to eat. Is one of these workers any more important than the other? Of course not! The seed would be of no value if no one prepared the soil to be healthy. If no one planted the seed in the ground there would be no food. If no one picked the crops, it would rot in the fields and be of no value. Every person in the process is important, whether we understand their role or not.

God created us to need each other. It is true that relationships can be complicated, frustrating, and time consuming. Relationships can also be encouraging, rewarding, and absolutely necessary. Think about the encouragement that you received from a mother, father, teacher, friend, or even a complete stranger. Think about the positive impact that made on your life.

While many people are quite pleasant, some people can be just plain difficult. It is very easy to point out the flaws in other people, especially when they act crazy and make poor choices. How about looking at our own flaws? If we are honest with ourselves, we must admit that we all have shortcomings and make mistakes. Jesus Christ, our Lord and Savior, reminds us of this: "Why do you look at the speck of sawdust in your brother's eye and pay no attention to the plank in your own eye?" – Matthew 7:3. We are all works in progress, and God is not done working in each of us on this side of eternity. Being humble requires that we are honest about the fact that all miss the mark every day, and that we need to ask God, in humility, to help us to be better people. God also reminds us to not judge one another, but rather to encourage one another. It's important to remember that we don't really know a person until we have walked in their shoes.

We all need God's help and His grace every day, and He is always ready to provide it. We must do our part, which is to work every day on being humble. His Word reminds us, "God resists the proud, but gives grace to the humble" – James 4:6.

At that time Jesus said, "I praise you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have hidden these things from the wise and learned, and revealed them to little children. Yes, Father, for this is what you were pleased to do.

"All things have been committed to me by my Father. No one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and those to whom the Son chooses to reveal him.

"Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn from me, for I am gentle and humble in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy and my burden is light."

Matthew 11: 25 - 30
